Series: The God Who Preserves His Wayward People (Judges)

THE TRAGIC OUTCAST DELIVERER

Judges 10:1-12:7

The account of Jephthah's deliverance of Israel from the Ammonites in Judges 10:6-12:7 warns us against turning our gracious relationship with the LORD into manipulative negotiation with Him instead of trusting submission to Him.

I. APOSTASY, OPPRESSION, AND MANIPULATING REPENTANCE
(10:6-16)

II. NEGOTIATING FOR A LEADER RATHER THAN INQUIRING OF GOD
(10:17-11:11)

III. CONFRONTING THE ENEMY IN FAITH IN THE ULTIMATE JUDGE
(11:12-28)

IV. ADDING MANIPULATION TO FAITH ADDS TRAGEDY TO VICTORY
(11:29-40)

V. JEALOUSY BRINGS COSTLY DIVISION IN THE WAKE OF VICTORY
(12:1-7)

STORIES FROM 2019 NATIONAL DAY OF PRAYER EVENTS:

PLANES, TRAINS, AND PRAYER: INTERCESSORS ON THE MOVE

PLANES Part 2

Just as God was faithful to the early church in Acts “And the Lord added to their number” (Acts 2:47) PrayerFlight added eight new pilots across the country, a number that astounded Stevens. Even pilots who were unbelievers or unable to participate passed along the information about PrayerFlight to people within their sphere of influence who might be interested. Stevens was surprised by some of the new pilots who responded or passed the information along, because he had never seen them willing to engage in matters of a spiritual or religious nature. In total, PrayerFlights were completed in 40 states on or around the National Day of Prayer this year.

“I was surprised—though I shouldn’t have been—but I saw God move in ways I hadn’t anticipated or imaged,” Stevens said.

What Stevens at first saw as a barrier, God used as an opportunity to reach outside of what felt safe. Through this step of faith, God invited more people into closer community with believers and active participation in Kingdom work - pursuing humanity with the relentless love that sent Jesus to the cross to die for our sins.

“It was a special time for me in my relationship with God, just learning to trust in Him and not in my own understanding,” Stevens said. “It was a lesson for me to not prejudice people who might want to be involved.”

The new season as National Coordinator for PrayerFlight has been full of learning curves for Stevens, who is grateful for the continued companionship of Michael Harnishferger, the founder and National Coordinator for PrayerFlight for 10 years. The Paul to his Timothy on this journey. There are plenty of Silases for Stevens as well; a group of leaders has stepped up to help coordinate flights and events in different regions of the country, and through these relationships, Stevens has continued to learn how to rejoice in God’s provision.

“I’m on my knees consistently praying that I will be open to direction and not a hindrance to what the Lord wants to do with PrayerFlight,” Stevens said.

Learning to lean into God’s view of our lives rather than our own is a common theme in the PrayerFlight community.

Praying while flying over a certain location does not make the prayers any more powerful or reach God sooner or anything of that nature. Being able to fly over a place simply gives a new perspective, and the Spirit can use the new perspective to guide hearts to pray in new ways or new prayers altogether. It can help passengers and pilots alike recognize that no matter how big our own little worlds feel, just a few thousand feet up and it all appears tiny. How much smaller do our problems seem to the God of the Universe?

“In the broader picture, consider how God sees things from a different perspective,” Stevens said. “We are trudging along and we don’t always see things how He sees them. Being at altitude helps us understand that perspective.”

When we are reminded of how small we are, we are able to see how big God is and put our trust in His perspectives, plans and prayers laid on our hearts. Serving God means walking along an ordained path, and as believers, we can rejoice knowing our trust is our mighty Lord who can lead us through the valley of the shadow of death unharmed, and turn our barriers into nothing but a vapor.
